A Weekly Wrap Up of All Things Addison!

April 5, 2019

Council Updates

Council Establishes Business Regulations to Limit Long-Term Stays at Addison Hotels

At its March 26 meeting, the City Council established a business regulation that would require hotels in Addison to operate so that no more than 30% of room nights may claim the “permanent resident exemption.” Hotel guests who stay 30 days or longer are considered by the State of Texas to be permanent residents and the law exempts hotels from having to pay hotel occupancy tax on those stays.

Any hotel that operates in violation of this new requirement is subject to a fine of up to $500 per occurrence. If a hotel continues to operate in this manner for three months within a twelve-month period, the City Council may hold a hearing and revoke the hotel's certificate of occupancy.

Staff is working to communicate the requirement with all of our hotels prior to the June 1, 2019 effective date.

You can watch the Council discussion on the new hotel regulations here .

Business Pulse

Economic Development Team Visits Cutter Aviation

Economic Development and Tourism Director Orlando Campos and Economic Development Manager Wilson Kerr visited Cutter Aviation on Tuesday, April 2. The Addison team met with Christopher Gradisar, the manager of Aircraft Services at Cutter Aviation's Addison regional facility. In recent years, the Arizona-based company has expanded its footprint at the Addison Airport and now covers three office buildings and two hangars, with operations consisting of airplane sales, airplane servicing, and charter aviation. Cutter focuses its airplane sales on Piper Aircraft, Pilatus, HondaJet, and Daher TBM, with 50 percent of their sales coming from pilot-owned aircraft. Addison is very pleased that Cutter Aviation calls Addison Airport their North Texas home and look forward to continued future growth.

Around Town

April is National Volunteer Month!

During 2018, 194 Addison volunteers donated a total of 3,184.25 hours. Independent Sector, a national membership organization that brings together a diverse set of nonprofits, foundations, and corporations to advance the common good, has estimated the value of a volunteer hour to be $24.69 per hour which puts the value of our volunteers' time at $78,612.

Our volunteers really enjoy giving back to the community they love. You'll find them in Town offices answering phones and at special events greeting guests. Many have formed friendships not only with other volunteers, but also with Town staff. While we do have Addison residents who volunteer, we also have volunteers from Dallas, Farmers Branch, and Carrollton. We even have some who come all the way from Anna and Fort Worth just to help with our events.

Many thanks to all our dedicated volunteers! We treasure the time you dedicate to the Town of Addison.
