Around Addison

Addison Kaboom Town! Is This Weekend!

Addison Kaboom Town! will return on July 3! In addition to the 25-minute fireworks show, this year's festivities will include the Addison Airport Freedom Flyover which will feature multiple historic plane flyovers, similar to the Salute to Heroes event last May. A town-wide party, the fireworks and flyover viewing options include watch parties at many of Addison's 180+ restaurants or 22 hotels, and a limited-capacity party at Addison Circle Park. Tickets were available to Addison residents from June 14 - June 20 before opening to the public on Monday, June 21, and sold out in three hours. You can still get guaranteed admission into the park if you book an Addison hotel for the night.

If you want to avoid the traffic and the crowds, catch the live stream version of the fireworks show on Addison's YouTube Channel.

Addison Hosts Commercial Broker Breakfast

On Wednesday, June 30, Addison staff hosted a group of 20 commercial real estate brokers for a light breakfast and an economic development update. The Economic Development & Tourism Department was joined by Director of Development Services Ken Schmidt, City Manager Wes Pierson, and Deputy City Manager Ashley Mitchell. Guests were provided an overview of new private investments in the community, the Addison Circle redevelopment area, the Sam's Club Special Area Study, and the Midway Road revitalization project. Staff was able to address questions from the brokers, many of whom represent office buildings and tenants looking for space. Events such as these are held twice a year to help promote the Town and to increase the brokers' knowledge about Addison.
